

The image features six stools made from recycled wood stumps, arranged on a light gray surface. Each stool is a truncated cone shape, covered in a dense, multi-colored speckle pattern. The colors vary by stool: one is dark brown with orange and yellow speckles; another is bright red with black and white speckles; a third is orange with yellow and black speckles; a fourth is blue with white and black speckles; a fifth is light blue with yellow and black speckles; and the sixth is dark gray with white and red speckles. The stools are arranged in a loose cluster, with some in the foreground and others in the background.

The stool features a unique pattern, born from a collaborative effort between Derlot and its manufacturing partners, presenting a fresh interpretation of recycled materials. The terrazzo-like design accentuates the stool's recycled origins. While standard colour options offer a touch of vibrant playfulness, customization empowers clients to match the stool to their personal preferences.
